- Community Reporting. After talking with hundreds of thousands of people over the years about their situations, their needs, and the barriers they have experienced, 211 UWHC is able to report to the community where there are trends in needs, gaps in services, and duplication in effort.

The vision of 211 UWHC is to be the leader in providing unrestricted access to community services information for people in need. For more information, contact 211 UWHC at (765) 457-4357 or online at www.unitedwayhoco.org.

Connecting People Through 2-1-1

Everyone knows that dialing 911 will connect them with police, fire and ambulance emergency services. In Indiana, dialing 2-1-1 will connect them 24/7 to free and confidential information about human services.

The Federal Communications Commission reserved the 2-1-1 abbreviated dialing code exclusively for nonprofit information and referral in July of 2000. However, planning and implementation of 2-1-1 had already started in many parts of the U.S. and Canada. It is being carried out by a variety of state, regional and provincial groups and on widely varying scales of coverage.

Here in Indiana, 211 UWHC has been working with the Indiana 211 Partnership, Inc. and a range of stakeholders for over ten years to extend 2-1-1 to the entire state. In 2012 this dream became a reality.

Now that all 92 Counties have 211 services this means:

- People with needs will be connected easily to available human services such as clinics, counseling, food pantries, shelters and financial assistance programs.
- The 211 caller will receive a “live” answer 24 hours a day from trained professionals.
- A more cost effective (I&R) system will maximize both local and state resources (private, philanthropic and public).
- Hoosiers will experience greater quality and uniformity of I&R services.
- Funders and planners will receive information about met and unmet needs, duplication of and barriers to services and trends.

As people become more familiar with 211, it will be how most people who need human services will make the connection.

For more information about state, national and local efforts related to 211, visit these websites: www.IN211.org, www.211.org and www.unitedwayhoco.org.

It is a pleasure to serve you. For additional questions or concerns you may contact Cheryl Graham, Director, 211 United Way of Howard County at 765-457-4357 or email cgraham@unitedwayhoco.org.
